TAXPAYERS MEET HEAVY COSTS

Frequent Elections Cost Large Sums,
But Voters Show Lethargy Toward Casting Ballots.

(Special Frankfort Correspondence.)

Frankfort, Ky.,—Fewer elections in Kentucky is springing up as one of the propositions for the legislature to handle this spring. It is claimed that the state has an "affliction of elections," and that the primary, regular and special elections held in the state in the course of a year are so many in number as to be a wearisome and burdensome to the voter and the taxpayer.

It is said further that relatively unimportant elections coming with frequency have the tendency to decrease interest in the really important elections.

The idea of fewer elections is sponsored by George L. Willis, of Shelbyville. Recently former State Auditor S. W. Hager, of Owensboro, has become a vigorous advocate of the proposition.

"Fewer elections would be far better for the people," says Mr. Hager. "The taxpayers would not be put to the expense they are under the present system, there would be a smaller drain on the time and patience of the voter, and the state would not be continually in the midst of some campaign for a coming election."

By expressing their views in important and far-reaching matters and deciding the questions that usually come up with each general election, results would be obtained equal with those we secure now."

Contract Held in Abeyance.

The question of disposing of the labor of 650 prisoners in the reformatory, the contract for whose labor now held by the Hodge-Montgomery Co., is still before the State Board of Prison Commissioners. The present contract price is 55 cents the day for each prisoner, a total of $552.50 the day. The Hodge-Montgomery Co. did not bid, and besides an offer from Charles Irion for 150 men, the board has a bid from a company, represented by A. D. Martin, to take the output of a prison-managed chair factory. As the board has no funds with which to equip a factory and buy stock, this was found impracticable.

The Hodge-Montgomery Co. exercised its option for the renewal of another contract for 400 men for four years, and there is said to be a possibility yet that the company will make a new contract for the 650 men, although the Prison Commissioners say the company has made no bid, and the officers of the company deny that they are making any overture. Herebefore contracts for prison labor have been let for four years with an option for four years more, the limit defined by the statutes as it has been found to induce more satisfactory bidding. In anticipation of legislation or a constitutional amendment permitting the working of convicts on the public highways, the commissioners invited bids for a shorter term this time.

End Whisky "Outage."

An end to the "outage" allowance of the federal government to distillers is proposed by Congressman Rainey, of Illinois, on the heels of the prohibition vote in house of congress. Mr. Rainey says that increased value of whisky, due to age, causes the loss in evaporation. Should Mr. Rainey succeed in having the "outage" provision annulled, it means that Kentucky distillers will have to pay about $5,720,000 more revenue to the federal government than they have been paying. The "outage" allowance is the Carlsile act, whereby distillers are allowed a maximum leakage concession of 13.5 gallons on every forty-seven gallon barrel as loss during aging. On this 13.5 gallons, whether more or less has leaked, the distillers pay no tax. In the various Kentucky districts during the last fiscal year 5,200,000 gallons were lost through leakage and evaporation. Mr. Rainey would have distillers pay $1.10 a gallon for this.

Propose New Railroad.

Edwin W. Gearhart and J. A. Helm, of Seranton, Pa., who recently purchased 30,000 acres of coal and timber land in Clay county, have returned to this point, in company with a party of Brooksville, Pa., coal operators, after an inspection of right of way for a proposed railroad from Brooksville to Manchester, Clay county.

Hold Poultry Show.

Catalogues have been issued for the State Poultry Show, which will be held at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, January 4 to 8. Kentucky's poultry business is increasing in volume and the poultry flocks are increasing in number and quality. Those who are concerned in the prosperity of the industry ought to welcome the co-operation of the Experiment Station and profit by it. Backed by such an institution there should be no doubt of future prestige for the State Poultry Show.

Rate Increase Aids Kentucky.

Distinct benefits to both the public and the railroads will come to Kentucky through the five per cent increase in freight rates granted to the eastern railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the opinion of Green Garrett, member of the State Railroad Commission.

While the Kentucky territory or the railroads operating in Kentucky are not affected by the recent order, except where they operate in eastern territory, yet Mr. Garrett believes that the improvement of train service on eastern lines, with the purchases in equipment which are ready being made by the railroads, will bring benefits to all sections of the country.

"One of the principal causes of dull business conditions which has affected the country at large is the retarding policy forced on the railroads due to increased costs of materials and operation," he says. "The railroads buy immense amounts of building materials in Kentucky, and no doubt many heavy orders for supplies will be placed in this state at once. The railroads in Kentucky have no cause for complaint for their rates are high enough as they are now."

Surrender Value of Policies.

Insurance surrender values are collectable by persons to whom the policies have been assigned under the decision rendered in Louisville by Judge Quarles and regarded as an important one in state circles here. In the opinion Judge Quarles holds that the H. A. Thierman Co. can have judgment against the New York Life Insurance Co. for $67,789.39, the cash surrender value of two policies which were carried by Tobias Hoffer, of New Albany, and assigned to the Thierman Co. by Hoffer, April 12, 1909, to secure an indebtedness of $13,250, subsequently reduced to $10,898.32, owed by Hoffer to the Thierman Co. The accumulation period of the policies expired March 23, 1913, the cash surrender value of one being $2,263.10, and of the other $1,526.20. After the assignment of the policies the Thierman Co., according to agreement, paid off notes aggregating $2,291.50, given to the insurance company by Hoffer as premiums, and also three premiums aggregating $1,165.50. Shortly before the accumulation period expired the Thierman Co. sent a written notice to the insurance company that held the policies and that it was its purpose to exercise an option in the policies by exchanging the policies for their entire cash surrender value.

Stop Collection of Tax.

Suit to restrain the collection of a franchise tax from the Louisville & Nashville railroad has been filed in the federal court here by attorneys of that corporation. The taxes have been levied in franchises valued in excess of $22,899,200. The board of valuation and assessment fixed the franchise assessment at $41,627,967, and the railroad commission assessed the tangible property at $30,342,033, making a total assessment of $72,000,000.

Notice was received that the Queen and Crescent has secured a temporary restraining order from Judge Cochran at Maysville, restraining the collection of taxes on a franchise valuation in excess of what it paid last year.

The Chicago, Memphis and Gulf railroad, a subsidiary of the Illinois Central, filed suit in the Franklin circuit court enjoining the collection of taxes on its 1914 franchise of $190,000.

The road alleges that it has no franchise value and that its total capital is worth only $63,063, while the assessment of its tangible property made by the State Railroad Commission was $95,365, which it is willing to pay on. The road has twenty-one miles in Kentucky.

Improves Day-School Attendance.

As might have been expected, teachers who have engaged in "moonlight school" in the campaign to eradicate adult illiteracy are the first to observe the benefits in their day schools. Reports are coming in daily to Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman of the State Literacy Commission, from teachers telling of their progress and accomplishments.

Without exception, whenever a teacher reports success in gaining attendance of adults at night school, the report adds that it has improved the attendance of children in the day school.

Mrs. Wilson said this was one of the first beneficial effects wherever a successful "moonlight" school was conducted in Rowan county.

Buy 4,000 Head of Cattle.

Over four thousand fat cattle, destined for the Christmas export trade, have been purchased in various counties. The cash value of the cattle is in excess of $500,000. The cattle weighed from 1,250 to 1,400 pounds, and were shipped to the market in New York. They cost from $7.25 to $8.50 per hundred pounds. Of this number two thousand cattle were bought in Madison county, for which was paid $250,000.

Judges Consider Highways.

The county judges of Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence and Boyd counties will meet at Paintsville to discuss building better highways in each of these counties, and to consider the building of a continuous highway from Ashland, Boyd county, to the Dimkenson county, Va. line, passing through the other four counties on its way up the Sandy river. Private citizens at Pikeville are circulating petitions for signatures, which are addressed to the county authorities in behalf of good roads.

PLOT DISCOVEREDNumber of Natives Arrested
When An Anti-American Demonstration Is Started.

WARNING SENT TO OFFICIALS

Outbreaks Reported in Several Provinces, but Troops Are Ready for Action—Issue Public Protest Against New Taxes.

Manila, P. I., Dec. 28.—Eight Filipinos have been arrested on the charge of sedition as a result of an uprising in Manila and its environs Christmas eve. Further arrests are probable.

From army sources it is learned that a general warning was sent to all officers Thursday afternoon announcing that fully 10,000 Filipinos in Manila alone were ready for a concerted attack on Fort Santiago, the Cuartel Espana, the Cuartel Infanteria and the medical depot. The military units immediately were prepared and a street patrol was started at dusk.

Arresting Lacks Leaders. Constabulary agents who are members of the secret societies disclosed the plans for an uprising, thus enabling a force of constabulary and police to disperse gatherings at Bannayan, Tago and Navotas, near Manila. At Calocan a squad of American sailors seized chairs when a force of Filipinos approached a dance hall in which they were gathered and, using the chairs as weapons, routed the natives, of whom a number were injured.

The uprising evidently was badly organized and lacked leaders. It was composed of the most part of persons trusting implicitly in the word of Artemio Ricarte, a revolutionary, who conducts a continual propaganda from Hongkong, to which place he was banished by the American authorities some time ago. Ricarte, it is asserted, advised that the anti-American attempt be made on Christmas eve, when the American officers would be expected to celebrate the holidays.

Reports from the provinces tell of minor uprisings and occasional violence, but details from these sections are lacking. The situation today from all appearances and according to official statements is well under control of the military authorities. Governor-General Francis Burton Harrison is away on an official visit and Wilfred T. Denison, secretary of the interior, is in charge of affairs during Mr. Harrison's absence.

Protest Against New Taxes. The foreign chamber of commerce, supported by the Filipino body, has issued a public protest against the legislature's adoption of amendments to the internal revenue law imposing additional taxes. The measure was introduced on the eve of the Christmas recess and was passed without discussion, and also, it is said, without giving the merchants an opportunity to express their opinion regarding it.

Representations from the chamber of commerce regarding the new law, it is announced, are to go today to Secretary of War Garrison asking him to secure President Wilson's intervention.

TURKS MOVE UP BIG GUNS
Fearing that the Dardanelles Will Be Forced, Heavy Guns Shipped to Constantinople.

Athens, Dec. 28.—Anticipating that the allies will be able to force the Dardanelles and attack Constantinople itself, the Turks have transported heavy guns from Adrianople to San Stephano and Kadikoi, according to advices received here. From these two points the Turks will make their final fight against attempts to enter the Golden Horn.

SAKHALIN CEDED TO JAPAN

Russia Gives Up Its Half of the Island in Exchange for Heavy Guns.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Russia has ceded to Japan its half of the island of Sakhalin for some heavy guns, according to official advices received at the Japanese embassy in Tokyo. Russia ceded the island until September, 1905. The southern half was ceded to Japan by the Portsmouth treaty.

Describing the first kiss of love, Editor Woodson May says in the Somerset Journal: "It tastes like the double-distilled essence of honey spread on a large, fat, slice of pumpkin pie; that its taste resembles a sip of nectar brewed by the gods and served in a dew-covered honeysuckle blossom!"

DRIVE GERMANS BACK

Russians Fight Their Way Through Blinding Blizzard.

Russ Capture 2,500 Prisoners and Three Guns in Battle on the Rawa River.

Paris, Dec. 28.—Reprise of German counter attacks by the allies is the chief feature emphasized in an official statement issued here. It indicates that the Germans, replying to the offensive taken by the French, British and Belgians, have themselves in turn made attacks almost along the entire front.

Petrograd, Dec. 28.—The German cruiser Hertha and a German mine layer have been sunk in the Baltic sea, according to information received by the Russian admiralty.

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY, International News Service Correspondent. Petrograd, Dec. 28.—Smashing their way forward through a blizzard that rendered operations by the enemy's scouting aeroplanes impossible, Russian forces celebrated Christmas day by driving the Germans out of Rawa on the Rawa river, and drove them back six miles to Jezow. For five days the Germans had been in possession of Rawa, part of which stands on the highest point of a range of hills between the Pilica and Bura rivers.

A sanguinary battle took place on these heights, but after a conflict of three hours the Germans were driven down the western slopes. The Russians took 2,500 prisoners and three guns.

According to the Army Messenger, this victory at Rawa, while not overwhelming in itself, opens a way to making a breach in the German line to lessen the pressure that the Kaiser's troops are maintaining against the Russians on both the Bura and Pilica.

"The Russian positions on the Bura are formidable," says the Army Messenger. "The Rawa heights are of great importance and dominate the situation between the Pilica and Bura. It is fortunate that they were taken at this time, as the Germans are bringing up heavy reinforcements."

"Germany is apparently drawing up on her last resources to concentrate one million men on our western front. Among prisoners passing through the lines were several professional soldiers. Scores were speaking showing that men who had been rejected early in the war had later been sent to the front."

Under the caption "Austrian Army a Surprise," the Army Messenger discusses the Galician campaign at some length.

"The stubborn defense of our Austrian opponents in western Galicia has been the greatest surprise of the war," it admits. "Beginning with the battle of Dukla Pass it has shown a resourcefulness and strength wholly unexpected in view of the early events of the war."

"Though we won at Dukla, taking several ammunition wagons and more than two thousand prisoners, the Austrians inflicted severe losses upon us. They contested bitterly for every foot of ground."

Child Burned to Death. Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 28.—Five-year-old Edward Shedd was burned to death when his clothes were ignited from the kitchen stove while his mother was at a neighbor's.

Russ Repulse Turks. Petrograd, Dec. 28.—It was announced here that the Turks had attempted to advance in the Dostak district, but had been repulsed by the Russians.

Lumber Yard Burns. Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 28.—Two firemen were hurt in a fire which caused $150,000 damage to the Cattle Lumber Company's yards.

Overcharged. The attorney for the gas company was making a popular address. "Think of the good the gas company has done!" he cried. "If I were permitted a pun, I would say, in the words of the immortal poet, 'Honor the Light Brigade.'" Voice of a consumer from the audience: "O, what a charge they made!"—Youth's Companion.

WRECKED TEMPLE

BOMB HURLED BY FANATIC AT FEET OF SWAMI WHILE HINDU SERVICE IS ON.

Thower Is Killed and Five Are Injured—Platform Torn Up and Windows Broken.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. San Francisco,—Louis Vavara, believed to have been a religious fanatic, wrecked the Hindu temple at Filbert and Webster streets, when he exploded a dynamite bomb at the feet of the Swami Trigunabaita during services.

Vavara was killed, the bomb blowing him almost 50 feet. The Swami was cut badly about the legs and feet. Of the congregation, about 25 persons were injured.

Vavara was known to all of the members of the congregation. He was an inmate of the monastery, which is maintained on the third floor of the temple, up to two years ago, when he was ousted. He kept away until Christmas and was greeted by his former associates that day.

He strode quickly by the doorkeeper, E. C. Brown, and walked down the center aisle of the temple. He is believed to have carried the bomb under his coat, until getting inside, and then to have transferred it to his hat. No one interfered with him as he approached the platform from which the Swami was preaching.

Lifting the bomb from his hat he moved it up and down three times and brought it down with a crash on the platform.

There was a deafening report and all of the windows of the temple were blown into the streets. Glass was thrown a distance of about a hundred feet. Within the temple there was a panic and the injured ran screaming into the streets.

The platform on which the Swami stood was smashed into kindling wood. The floor was blown up, pictures behind the altar were torn from their frames and a piano and organ were wrecked.

Immediately after the explosion relief was given to the victims. Those of the congregation who might have known any cause for Vavara's act immediately began to tell conflicting stories and the investigation has so far been fruitless in uncovering the cause.

Vavara was a machinist and was employed in Oakland.

HENRY M. BOSWORTH—CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Elsewhere in this issue will appear the announcement of Henry M. Bosworth, Auditor of Public Accounts, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

No one will be unfair enough as to say that Henry Bosworth has not made the State a most excellent Auditor of Public Accounts; that he has been weighed in the political balance and not found wanting; as a member and chairman of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment he stood like a stone wall for the people's rights against corporate greed and wealth; as State Treasurer he made a most excellent official. In fact, wherever duty has called this excellent and courageous Democrat, he has always bared his breast to the front of the army and acquitted himself with honor, as well as reflecting honor and credit on the State. He is, indeed, a clean-handed and open fighter and an honorable upright public official. If nominated and elected, he will make a "model Governor."—Anderson News.

THE PORK BARREL

The Committee on Federal Aid in the construction of the post roads has reported in favor of Federal Government extending aid to the States and through local agencies in the construction of model roads, and recommends a permanent commission for that purpose. It also says that "care should be exercised that Federal aid be scientific and effective and not to degenerate into a pork barrel raid on the National treasury."

Now, if the committee will point out some method by which it can be prevented from becoming a mere pork barrel, the country will be willing to give it cordial support. The stuporous sums expended for the improvement of worthless rivers and harbors would stagger the comprehension. It is now proposed that the same method be employed in the highways of the country.

A "White Gift" Christmas.

"No doth the Great King regard one gift above another, so long as all be white."

In many Sunday schools the desire is strongly felt to have the annual Christmas service represent more than the rendering of a programme, however beautiful and impressive it may be. It is a worthy desire and the white gift idea which finds public expression in the service "White Gifts for The King" completely satisfies it.

The entertainment given by the children of the Presbyterian Sunday School on the evening of Wednesday, the 23rd, under the able leadership of Mr. A. R. Denny, the Superintendent of the Sunday School, and the efficient corps of teachers, was most interesting and enjoyable. The program consisted of anthems, Christmas carols, reading and recitations. One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was the Christmas legends of other lands most effectively and charmingly told by Miss Hanson, of the Normal school. Dr. Telford, the pastor, followed with a story taken from real life, which was received with delighted attention by the children. A duet sung by Miss Elizabeth Hume and Master Coleman D. Oldham was delightfully rendered. The recitations of Miss Elizabeth Hobson, Elizabeth Hanger, Emma Oldham and others, were received with appreciative interest and attention.

The decorations under the skillful management of Mrs. T. J. Taylor, Mrs. J. B. Stouffer, Misses Kathryn Poyntz, Anna Shaw, Van Greenleaf and Bessie Miller, were unique and artistic. Miss Van Greenleaf deserved and received sincere commendation for the successful training of the children along musical lines.

As the classes marched one by one to offer their white gifts to the King, their radiant shining faces attested the truth that "It is more blessed to give than to receive," sharing as they did their gifts with the little ones whose Christmas cheer and happiness depended upon their giving.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by
J. W. DARTON, Chairman, N. Y.
Editor of the New York State Grange
Review

WASHINGTON GRANGE.

Annual Meeting at North Yakima Discussed Important Matters.

Washington is one of the grange states that holds its annual meeting in the early summer instead of the rigorous winter. The session this year was held at North Yakima and was well attended. State Master C. B. Kegley gave a strong address, in which he set forth policies of the grange in this strongly progressive grange state in most forceful words.

It appears from the secretary's report that the receipts of the year, including cash on hand at the beginning of the year, were $11,128.88 and that the cash balance on hand May 31, 1914, was $4,350.00. The state grange paid national grange dues to the amount of $830.09. It cost $2,101.72 to publish its official paper.

Among the resolutions adopted of general interest was one to the effect that the time limit for the session of the national grange should not exceed one week. It was stated that the cost of the annual sessions for the past three years has averaged over $11,000 each, and therefore it was believed that the session should be shortened.

Another resolution opposed representation in the state legislature by non-taxpayers. The state tax table showed that seventeen representatives and two senators pay no taxes at all, that twenty-eight representatives and three senators pay less than $10 each and that forty representatives and six senators pay less than $25 each. The average per capita for both houses was $25.27.

The grange endorsed the bill now pending before congress known as S. R. 3354, which favors government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines. The grange took the position that the government should control all inventions which contribute to the public good.

As there are large importations of butter from New Zealand and eggs from China and as the butter this imported is cut up and wrapped in Washington creamery wrappers the grange declared that all imported butter and eggs should be marked, so that the consuming public may know just what they are buying.

The progressive state granges, so called, were by resolution requested to meet in Washington just prior to the meeting of the national grange in Wilmington, Del., in November, to formulate policies and plans relating to rural credits, road legislation and other important matters.

Another resolution commended President Wilson for doing all that it seems possible to do to "maintain peace on earth and good will toward men," with special reference to the Mexican situation.

State Master Kegley said in his address that the grange demand for parcel post improvement will not be satisfied until we have established a postal express service reaching all rural districts as well as the cities as full and complete as that now enjoyed by the cities by the double service of the limited parcel post and the private express companies.

Organizing Under Difficulties.
Many Old Grangers remember R. M. Cessna, who up till a few years ago, says a writer in the National Stockman, was one of the wheel horses of the grange in Ohio. A few years ago he moved to Colorado and is just as active in grange work in the western mountains as he was in his Hardin county home. Last winter he attended the Ohio state grange meeting at Lima and in an address told some of his experience in grange work since going west. Mr. Cessna has been deputized by the national master as a national organizer and has been active in Colorado and Wyoming.

In a letter to Secretary Freeman he tells of some of the difficulties to be overcome in grange organization in the west. In ordering the outfit for a new grange he added: "Send outfit by parcel post, as grangers are fifty miles from Rock Springs, the nearest express office. They get mail only once a week, every Monday. In coming here I rode fifteen miles in a big wagon and thirty-five miles on a sled. Snow was over six feet deep, but the last three days have been thawing, with lots of water." Later he wrote, "After bucking snow, mud and water for two days, arrived at a railroad station, came fifty miles across the Rockies. Part of the time snow up to the axle of the wagon, next minute water up to the bed, and next mud was axle deep."

Two of his granges are located in a valley a mile and a quarter above sea level. You will notice what a blessing parcel post is to these people, so the grange has been a benefit to them before their own was organized. And yet eastern deputies cheer up. You've a snap in organizing granges compared to organizers in some places.

New Jersey Campaign.
New Jersey has many grade crossings at railroad. Most of these are guarded by flagmen or proper devices to warn the traveling public of approaching trains and so have proved a system of safety traps. Following the last meeting of the New Jersey state grange, the Patrons of that state have begun a systematic campaign to have these crossings properly equipped so as to lessen their toll of human life.

SOUND REASONS

Why Col. Walton Should Be Next Secretary Of State.

Col. W. P. Walton having announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State, this column of the Herald desires to go on record at this earliest possible moment as unalterably in favor not only of his nomination but of his election. Not merely because of the fellow feeling that obtains between one newspaper man and his comrade in service do we beg leave in our humble way to champion his cause, but because as a citizen his hands are clean and as an editor his life's best efforts have been dedicated to the upbuilding of his native State; because he has served his people fearlessly, ably, with clear head and single-hearted purpose and because since the halcyon days when he received his first licking for trying the shirttails of his boyhood companions in hard knots while they were "in swimmin'" until this good hour, he has never run from a fight, though he has never started one, and neither physically nor morally does he fear any man, beast or devil that walks this earth. Money cannot buy Walton. Power cannot awe him. He is as tender as a child with his friends, generous with his enemies, but uncompromising to the end if he believes he is right. Col. Walton is a "yellow-dog" Democrat and is proud of it. Assuming that the cardinal principles of his party couldn't be wrong, he never swerved in his duty to its nominees and fought wholeheartedly to the finish. He has suffered many defeats, but was never overwhelmed. He is loyal as a Roman soldier, no less brave and as true as steel. For our honored and in a different sense, beloved comrade, the "evening lamp is lit," but still shines brightly far down the peaceful valley of the passing years, so that this belated honor will be the more gratifying if it come after service unstintedly rendered and entitled to recognition. If he wins this race, victory will be only justly earned recognition for loyalty when others faltered and when loyalty was like gold.—Lexington Herald.

John W. Hord, our model farmer, and his congenial and model wife, entertained Christmas day their children, grandchildren and a few friends. The dinner was so bounteous and delicious that it made those present wish for the stomachs of elephants and the necks of giraffes, so that they could taste it a long time and hold a large quantity. Mr. Hord said that there was no foot and mouth disease on his place, but I greatly fear that there will be some cases of foot disease in this section.

Geo. W. Park, who has been very ill for some days, is reported no better.

Dillard Berryman, who has been suffering from the effects of an operation on one of his eyes, is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. West entertained their son, W. C. West and wife, of Silver Creek, and a few friends Sunday, in honor of their daughter, Miss Tommie, who had returned from Hazard, where she is employed as a teacher in the high school at that place.

Miss Emma Hendren, who teaches in the high school at Richmond, is spending the Xmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hendren.

The Bible school of Speedwell church concluded the year's work with a general review, after which there were exercises, consisting of speeches, recitations, songs, duets, quartettes, etc., all of which were appropriate for celebrating Christmas. After this, the school

To Our Friends and Others Who Grow Tobacco:

The time for hot air misrepresentations and extravagant talk is over. This line of argument might have fooled a few people who have tobacco to sell but it don't last. We are now at a point where the grower or the man selling tobacco says to such people, "You'll have to show me." This is where we come in. This is all we want, all we ever want, a square deal. Simply compare our sale with those of any house anywhere, large or small. We court this kind of competition. Well, says the hot air artist, what else have you to say. Just wait a minute and you'll find out. February 2, 1914, (last season) this house sent out a letter reviewing our market. You must remember we led it in pounds sold and in prices obtained, doing so we also led any market in Kentucky with a higher general average. We then called attention to the fact that we had sold four crop lots at a very high price as follows: Smith & Agee 2500, pounds, at an average of nearly 20c; Palmer & Lear, 2475 pounds, average 16c; Lee & Doolin, 4300 pounds, average 16c; Deatherage & King, 2500 pounds, average $15.95.

Now let us give the best sales in the 12 days we have been open this season. Million and Masters, Valley View, 2240 pounds, average $13.15; M. B. Baker, Garrard county, 1660 pounds, average $13.00; Warner & Jones, Red House, 1790 pounds, average $15.00; Luther Kimberlain, Dreyfus, 1380 pounds, crop, average $13.80; Tudor & Long, Newby, 1875 pounds, crop, average $13.50; S. T. Hoover, Lancaster, R. R. crop lot 1035 pounds, average $17.01 hundred; while the lot of Schoeller & Curtis, Richmond, R. R. sold at the following prices: 270 pounds at $25.00 per hundred, 240 pounds at $20.00, 210 pounds at $25.00, 221 pounds at $14.75, 165 pounds at $18.00, 210 pounds at $17.00, 345 pounds at $15.00, 235 pounds at $18.75. General average $20.00. There are many others we could name just as good.

These sales will quickly stop wildcat talk. They are not imaginary sales; write to them, or better still, telephone them. They will speak for themselves. We want to say that our house has built its reputation on telling the truth. We know no other way to do business successfully. By doing this we have established one of the best markets in the country. We still lead in prices obtained and in pounds sold. Let the fellows who talk about our market read the price we quote to them and weep. We can't help it. The farmer had the tobacco, we had the place to show it and the buyers to bid on it. This is all there is to it.

We wish you the happiest kind of Xmas and to remember that we have just a little better prices than the other fellows have gotten. Market stronger each day, and this we expect to see continue from day to day. The Holidays are over and WE ARE NOW READY FOR BUSINESS and hope to see you with us. Everything that modern ideas could suggest we have in our big steel warehouse.

We thank you for making it possible for us to stay in the lead in prices and pounds.

Very sincerely,

MADISON TOBACCO WAREHOUSE COMPANY, Inc.

MOTHER SUPERIOR ROSARY HILL HOME

Tells How Vinol Restores Strength and Vitality to the Weak, Worn-Out Ones in Her Charge.

Rosary Hill Home, Hawthorne, N. Y. "I have been at work among the sick and poor for nearly eighteen years, and whenever I have used Vinol for run-down, weak or emaciated patients, they have been visibly benefited by it. One patient, a young woman, was so weak and ill she could hardly creep to my door for aid, and was leaning on a friend's arm. I supplied Vinol to her liberally and in a month when she returned to thank me I hardly recognized her. She was strong, her color charming and her cheeks rounded out. These words are uttered from my heart, in order that more people may know about Vinol, as there is nothing makes me happier in the world than to relieve the sick."

Mother M. ALPHONSE LATHROP, O.S.D., Hawthorne, N. Y. Such disinterested and reliable testimony should convince everyone of the merits of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic to build up health and strength for all weakened and nervous conditions, whether caused from overwork, worry or chronic coughs and colds. If Vinol fails to benefit we return your money.

The Christmas dinner given under the direction of Mrs. Hallie A. Deatherage, through the generosity of friends, at McKee's Rink, on Christmas day, was well attended. ## A THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

While the bells ring out the old year and usher in the new.

Could our hearts but be attuned to their music sweet and true;

Could we but know our striving, and our labors are not vain—

That He will send the sunshine just as surely as the rain.

If our faith were only stronger, we would more to reach the goal.

And our purpose pure and steadfast, to lift some fallen soul.

The hearts here we might gladden, by a word or kindly smile.

And the pathway now so thorny, be all rose-strewn after while.

Then let us cease repining, while the golden hours speed fast.

Sow the seed of love and kindness for the harvest at last.

And He who loves the sparrow will keep watch over thee.

And anchor safe thy little bark, within Eternity!

A beautiful but quiet wedding was that of Mr. Harold Oldham and Miss Margaret Arnold, which was solemnized at the home of the bride, in Lancaster, Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. P. M. Tindler, of the Christian church, officiating. The house was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and plants and the bride and groom entered the parlor to the sweet strains of a wedding march played by Miss Patsy Kinnaird, and stood beneath an arch of smilax and ferns.

The bride was most becomingly attired in green cloth, with large black hat, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was very handsome in the customary suit of black. Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends were present at the marriage. Immediately following the ceremony the bride party left in an automobile for Danville, where they caught the train for Cincinnati.

The bride is the only daughter of Judge and Mrs. Clay Arnold, of Lancaster, and is well-known here, where she has visited and where she formerly attended Madison Institute. She is a young lady of much beauty and charm of manner, and the groom is to be congratulated. Mr. Oldham is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Oldham, of this city, and is one of our prominent young society men. He has many friends, who extend heartiest good wishes to his bride and himself, in which the Climax-Madisonian heartily joins.

MARRIED

Miss Jane Rice, daughter of Mr. Chas. Rice, and one of the most popular and charming young ladies in the county, and Mr. Geo. Tipton, a prosperous young farmer of Union City, Madison county, were married at the home of the bride at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. Sommer officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Benton, of this city, attended the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Tipton will reside at Union City.—Estill Tribune.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday forenoon at the residence of the bride, when Miss Neva Carpenter, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carpenter, became the wife of Mr. Henry G. Denner. Mr. Denner came here about two years ago, during which time he has served as chief of police of the city. He has made an efficient officer and conducted himself in such a way as to gain the confidence and friendship of the people. His bride is a charming and accomplished young woman, worthy of the esteem in which she is held by her friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fryman, in the presence of a number of friends of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Denner left immediately after the ceremony for Hammond, N. Y., where they will reside.—Estill Tribune.

Prof. Carpenter formerly lived at Kingston, Madison county. He is now county attorney of Estill county.

A THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

While the bells ring out the old year and usher in the new, Could our hearts but be attuned to their music sweet and true: Could we but know our striving, and our labors are ne'er vain— That He will send the sunshine just as surely as the rain. If our faith were only stronger, we were sure to reach the goal. And our purpose pure and steadfast, To lift some fallen soul. The hearts here we might gladden, By a word or kindly smile, And the pathway now so thorny, be all rose-strewn after while. Then let us cease repining, while the golden hours speed fast, Sow the seed of love and kindness for the harvest at last. And He who loves the sparrow will keep watch over thee, And anchor safe thy little bark, within Eternity! —A. D. L.

Rate of $5 a Year Again Offered If Paid By January 15, 1915.

This Offer Is Open Alike To Old And New Subscribers.

On September 15 The Lexington Herald announced that from that date its mailing list would be conducted on a strictly cash in advance basis, all subscribers being discontinued on the first and fifteenth of each month who were not paid in advance. This practice was adhered to from that date, but on the 15th day of December it was decided by The Herald to continue all subscribers whose subscription expired between that date and the 15th day of January to the last named date, thus giving ample time for all who have been in the habit of paying on the first of the year to do so before expiration date. They also offer the rate of $5.00 to all those subscribers who will pay the full year in advance before January 15.

CATARRH TROUBLE ENDED BY HYOMEI

An Inexpensive Easily Used and Most Effective Remedy.

Surely try Hyomei, nature's harmless remedy for catarrh, colds, asthma, bronchitis, or croup of children—a treatment that is pleasant to use, and so certain of results—that B. L. Middleton sells it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.

Hyomei is not a cure-all but a specific for distressing catarrh and similar ailments. You breathe Hyomei so that its antiseptic medication at once reaches the irritated and diseased tissues, healing and soothing the sore spots.

Get a Hyomei outfit, which contains inhaler and bottle of liquid, at once. Put twenty drops of Hyomei into the inhaler and breathe it a few times during the day. There is no treatment so satisfying, for it instantly opens the stopped-up air passages—you breathe freely, the unseen discharges from the nose stop, and dull headaches vanish—even the worst cases respond quickly.—Adv. The "Messiah" At Berea.

This annual feature of the life of Berea College was given on the night of Dec. 21, under the direction of Prof. Ralph Higley. The chorus was composed of 40 sopranos, 21 altos, 15 tenors, and 20 basses. Mr. Howard E. Taylor, whose musical attainments are well known to all who know anything of the work that is being done at Berea, presided at the organ, and delighted all with his interpretation of the "Pastoral Symphony." Mrs. Charles Burdette showed herself to be an accomplished pianist. The accompaniment was furnished by an orchestra of fifteen pieces. The chorus showed the effect of Prof. Bixby's careful training. Note "break" was noticed in the entire program. Their work was a delight from beginning to end.

Contrary to the usual custom of having soloists of wide reputation to assist, the soloists this year were found among the students, and all acquitted themselves with credit. In fact, they did their work so well that talent from a distance will be unnecessary to the rendering of this great oratorio in the future, if any such talent was found this year, can be developed at home; and with the great number of students there is no reason why it should not be. The soloists were: Miss Helen Carruthers, soprano; Miss Lee Cornelius, contralto; Mr. Gordon James Imlie, tenor; Mr. Walter W. Heckman, basso. Miss Cornelius is well known in Richmond, and her friends will be pleased to know that she will leave for New York in the next few weeks to take a course in voice culture.

The Christmas Saving Club for the new year started at the Madison National Bank on Monday, December 21. Mr. Burnam, the cashier, informs us that on the second day nearly 100 persons had joined the club, indicating that this would be the most successful in its history. A few days ago the affairs of the 1914 club were settled up and nearly $10,000 paid out to the "savers." Small sums went to many and came in mighty good time for a little Christmas money. TEMPERANCE

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

WANTED, BOYS!

Walking down the streets of our cities and towns and viewing the expensive window fixtures of the saloons, I can see as plain as the sign over the door, the word: "WANTED."

Yes, wanted $1,000,000, the saloon-keeper says. It makes no difference how I get it, but I must have it. I pay a big revenue to our grand old government to be protected and it must protect me. I pay a big license to the city, and in return it must furnish me material for my business. It must and will furnish boys. I can no more run my business without boys than a saw-mill can run without logs.

Varied, $1,000,000, and to get this amount of money 100,000 boys must be sacrificed. What kind of boys are wanted? The boys who have made a failure at everything they have undertaken? No, the boys of worth and of high birth and good parentage. Most desired is the boy whose parents have faced the financial difficulties of life and started the boy out well equipped. It makes no difference how his mother worked and contrived; it makes no difference how his father toiled in both heat and cold; the liquor trade wants is to get the boy started down the toboggan slide of life and strip him of money, honor and virtue before he realizes his true condition.—Mrs. Corn Wright in Union Signal.

RED RUM—MURDER.

A barrel of whiskey contains something more than an ordinary barrel of the same size; for, in addition to the regulation forty-two gallons, it contains:

A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of woes;

A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;

A barrel of tears of a world-weary wife;

A barrel of sorrow, a barrel of strife;

A barrel of all-around regret;

A barrel of cares and a barrel of debt;

A barrel of hunger, of poison, of pain;

A barrel of hopes ever blasted and vain;

A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of cries that fall from the maniac's lips as he dies;

A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight;

A barrel of terror that grows with the night.

A barrel of crimes and a barrel of groans;

A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans;

A barrel of serpents that hiss as they pass.

From the head of the liquor that glows in the glass.

Beware, all men of the glass!

A FAILURE—IF.

A judge of Knoxville, Tenn., when asked if prohibition had failed in that city, answered: "If larger and more regular attendance at Sunday school, preaching and other services in our churches; if a larger and more regular attendance at schools, by better-shod, better-clad children; if $40,000 more for increased room, better equipment and better-paid teachers; sixty per cent. decrease in arrests for drunkenness and kindred crimes; if a decrease even greater in the percent of murder and all grades of crime; if $1,000,000 spent for necessities is less helpful than the same amount spent for liquor—if these things indicate a failure, the prohibition has failed in Knoxville."

GREAT CRISIS.

Health boards, armed with police authority, eradicate the carriers of typhoid and quarantine the victims, but alcohol, a thousand times more destructive to public health than typhoid fever, continues to destroy. Alcohol degeneracy is the most important sanitary question before the country, yet health authorities do not take action because alcohol is entrenched in politics. We are face to face with the greatest crisis in our country's history. The alcohol question must be settled within the next ten years or some very virile nation will write the epitaph of this republic.—Dr. T. Alexander MacNicholl.

OUR VITAL ASSETS.

Taking the estimate of the money value to society of the average human life as $2,900, Dr. David Starr Jordan reckons our "vital assets" at approximately two hundred and fifty billion dollars ($250,000,000,000). The physical wealth of the United States lies in places at one hundred and ten billion dollars ($110,000,000,000). Speaking of the attention given to the preservation of this physical wealth, he insists that "even the most ardent materialist must admit that the conservation of forests or the eradication of disease among cattle and hogs is not to be compared in importance with the conservation of human life."

In 1911 the city and county were without saloons for nine months, had saloons the last three months, and the number of murders for the year was eighty-eight. ## Reduction In Living Costs Made Possible By Perfect Product.

The sudden and highly alarming increase in cost of food necessities, such as sugar and flour, demand increased domestic economy. For incomes have not advanced with the war-time soaring of food prices.

Waste of food as well as cost of food must be considered and minimized in these days of exorbitant prices. Fortunately, the greatest food waste with which the housewife has to contend—bake-day failures and the waste of costly baking materials—is rendered preventable by the perfect leavening power of Calumet Baking Powder.

Calumet is an absolutely sure baking powder of absolute purity. It never fails to produce fully raised bakings that are tender and temptingly delicious. For its wonderful leavening strength never varies. It's always uniform—and always unexcelled.

Calumet costs a mere trifle more than cheap Big Can brands, but is decidedly more economical to use. For big bulk purchases of inferior quality are never dependable—never certain. Consequently failure as frequently as success follows their use. So remember when tempted to save by securing greater baking powder bulk that you sacrifice quality and invite bake day failures that usually cost many times the price of the Baking Powder.

Many Trust Brand Baking Powders sell at a higher price than Calumet. But none possess the high quality of this excellent leavening—as is conclusively proven by the fact that Calumet received highest awards World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago; Paris Exposition, France, March, 1912.

To pay more than is asked for Calumet simply means a useless waste of money, to pay less and obtain an inferior powder means the useless waste of Baking Powder.

Order a can of Calumet. Save a substantial sum on the price asked for Trust Brands when you buy it. Save the flour, sugar, butter and eggs so often wasted by Big Can Powders—when you use it. You are safe in ordering Calumet, in trying it, in testing the truth of these claims, for if you are not thoroughly satisfied the purchase price will be refunded by your local dealer.

In buying a can of Calumet send the slip found in one-pound can to the Calumet Baking Powder Co., Advertising Department, Chicago, Ill., and you will receive one of their handsome 72-page Cook Books, illustrations in colors, and a book that will be a guide to economy in the kitchen.

Disappointed.

The farmers and tobacco growers are expressing great disappointment over the prices being paid for tobacco by the buyers. The average on the Lexington market for the last two weeks has been around 5c and 6c. ## STOP BUYING EXPENSIVE COUGH REMEDIES.

Make The Best At Home.

Money spent for the old style, ready made, cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 3 ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as it is for all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely so to Henry L. Perry's Drug Store and ask for 2 ounces (50c worth) of Schiffman's Concentrated Expectectorant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and whooping cough. One bottle will make enough home made cough medicine to probably buy last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. The above druggist has been authorized to return the money in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the best remedy ever used. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee.—Adv. Dec. 2 to Jan. 6.

Show Me An Honest Man.

Show me an honest man, was the expression that fell from the lips of one of our well-to-do citizens a few days ago during a conversation that came about the remarkable man by one that there were some honest men. A heated argument was indulged in and a jury would have experienced some trouble in deciding on points. This is a question that few, very few men ever stop to think of. The argument that those whom we consider honest men have never been tried to the limit, is no argument against their integrity, since a man is always considered honest until he proves himself otherwise.

A criminal is not made in one day, but this awful, well applied epithet is only used when long years of constantly indulging in crime make the person too morally weak to overcome the temptation. It began to manifest itself in him when he was taking a pencil, pen or eraser from his adjacent seat-mate at school, or stealing the boy who sat in front of him with a pin, or torturing the cat or dog. Some are born with the finer sense of moral nature, and only when they advance in matured years does this hereditary propensity become manifest. Many men prove themselves defaulters who are led into it by older persons, people who exert an undue influence over them. In a sense, they are not to blame, because they are weak in their moral nature or will power. Such need to be pitied rather than censured; their heart is right but their gray matter is all wrong. Such persons whose heart delights in well doing should persuade themselves that they are as strong as any person and refuse to be dictated to only in legitimate directions. Dare, to do evil, but always fear and abstain from doing that which your conscience condemns.

We want to confess just here that there are thousands upon thousands of honest men, whose word is as good as their bond, who could be trusted with a million with opportunity to escape. If this was not true almost every large financial concern in our country would be in the hands of a receiver. There are men who value their integrity far above dollars and cents.—Pendletonian.

WEIRD FINANCIAL DEALINGS SHOWN

Interstate Commerce Commission Is Told of Juggling of C., H. & D. Stock.

WITNESS WAS A DIRECTOR

Some Queer Operations in Connection With the Reorganization of the Pere Marquette and Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroads during the reorganization of the roads in 1907 and 1909 were described by Frederick W. Stevens of New York at the reopening of the interstate commerce commission's investigation into the financial affairs of the carriers.

Stevens is a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and has been a director in the Marquette road since 1907 and a director for the C. H. & D. since 1909. He said he participated personally in the reorganization of the Marquette in 1907 and in the reorganization of the C. H. & D. in 1909.

Stevens testified that for many years prior to July, 1904, the C. H. & D. was under the control of M. D. Woodford and Henry F. Shoemaker, and that from its organization in 1896 until 1904 the road paid regular dividends upon its $8,000,000 of preferred stock. In 1903 it paid 2 per cent on its $8,000,000 of common stock, he said.

Gains Control in 1904. In 1904, Stevens said, a syndicate purchased sufficient stock from Shoemaker and the other directors to gain control of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton. Morgan & Co. had no part in this transaction, said Stevens.

On July 7, 1904, the syndicate took charge of the property and elected Eugene Zimmerman president. The same day the purchase of 110,000 shares of Pere Marquette stock at $23 per share, a total of $2,530,000, was authorized. This was paid with $8,350,000 of C. H. & D. bonds and $5,500,000 notes.

Stevens then told how the C. H. & D. bought in all but $250,000 of its $8,000,000 preferred stock at about $23 a share and retired it. The next day was the day the C. H. & D. of the Pere Marquette for 999 years. Under the terms of the lease the C. H. & D. obligated itself to pay 4 per cent dividends on the preferred stock of the Marquette and 5 per cent on the common stock of the C. H. & D.

During the first year of Zimmerman's administration, the C. H. & D. guaranteed $9,000,000 of Marquette bonds. In 1905, said Stevens, the C. H. & D. purchased the Toledo Railway and Toledo Terminal. The indebtedness of the C. H. & D. now had piled up to $24,737,000, which was largely due to the purchase of the Pere Marquette, the witness said.

In connection with the various new issues of stock, stock purchases and similar deals, the C. H. & D. paid to F. H. Prince & Co. $312,000 in commissions and to H. B. Hollins & Co. $100,000. The annual interest charge on the C. H. & D. obligations amounted to $1,100,000, which doubled the interest charges of that road in the first year of Zimmerman's administration. At the end of this year the C. H. & D. was in debt for more $3,000,000, with its credit practically exhausted, said Stevens. He added that J. P. Morgan & Co. had nothing to do with these transactions.

It was in October, 1905, that J. P. Morgan purchased the C. H. & D. for the Erie Railroad, said Stevens. The reports of the company's career during the year preceding that date had not been published at that time, he declared.

President Underwood of the Erie wrote J. P. Morgan a long letter in August of 1905, asking him to buy the C. H. & D. for the Erie. Morgan agreed, and arrangement was made whereby the purchase price was to be paid by long-term bonds of the Erie. The purchase was concluded on October 20, 1905.

When the bad financial condition of the railroad was discovered, Morgan offered to take it over, and his offer was accepted with thanks by the Erie board of directors, Stevens asserted. In this way, the witness added, Morgan saved the Erie from heavy loss.

A receivership of the C. H. & D. was declared December 4, 1905. The Pere Marquette lease was cancelled and arrangements were made to refund the obligations of the C. H. & D.

RAILROADS APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

The Common Carriers Ask for Relief—President Wilson Directs Attention of Public to Their Needs.

The committee of railroad executives, headed by Mr. Frank Trumbull, representing thirty-five of the leading railroad systems of the nation, recently presented to President Wilson a memorandum briefly reviewing the difficulties now confronting the railroads of the country and asking for the cooperation of the governmental authorities and the public in supporting railroad credits and recognizing an emergency which requires that the railroads be given additional revenue.

The memorandum recites that the European war has resulted in general depression of business on the American continent and in the dislocation of credits at home and abroad. With revenues decreasing and interest rates increasing the transportation systems of the country face a most serious crisis and the memorandum is a strong presentation of the candle burning at both ends and the peril that must ultimately attend such a situation when the flames meet is apparent to all. In their general discussion the railroad representatives say in part: "By reason of legislation and regulation by the federal government and the forty-eight states acting independently of each other, as well as through the action of a strong public opinion, railroad expenses in recent years have vastly increased. No criticism is here made of the general theory of governmental regulation, but on the other hand, no insinuation can relieve the carriers of expenses created thereby."

President Wilson, in transmitting the memorandum of the railroad presidents to the public, characterizes it as "a lucid statement of plain truth." The president is recognizing the emergency as extraordinary, continuing, said in part: "You ask me to call the attention of the country to the imperative need that railway credits be sustained and the railroads helped in every possible way, whether by private co-operative effort or by the action, wherever feasible of governmental agencies, and I am glad to do so because I think the need very real."

The conference was certainly a fortunate one for the nation and the president is to be congratulated for opening the gate to a new world of effort in which everyone may co-operate. There are many important problems in our complex civilization that will yield to co-operation which will not tend themselves to arbitrary rulings of commissions and financing railroads is one of them. The man with the money is a factor that cannot be eliminated from any business transaction and the public is an interested party that should always be consulted and happily the president has invited all to participate in the solution of our railroad problems.

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

MANY ADVANTAGES OF FRESH-AIR BROODER

Modern Fresh-Air Brooder.

It is a general experience that loss of chicks during the early period of their life in brooders is apt to be large, despite the utmost care and attention. The mortality of brooder chicks has therefore been the subject of considerable investigation and the conclusion is that the trouble is in part at least due to defects in the ordinary type of bottom-heat brooder commonly used—too much floor heat and poor ventilation.

As a result of comparative tests, a brooder was designed which it is believed has decided advantages over ordinary types. The advantages claimed are that it is possible to rear in this brooder a larger number of chicks in proportion to the number originally put in than in any other brooder. The mortality is not only relatively low, but the chicks are healthier and thrifter. "The second advantage lies in the great saving of labor which is effected by the use of the new brooder. The fact that the brooder has never been removed from the house where it is operated means a decided economy."

The primary point aimed at was to make it a "fresh-air" and "pure-air" brooder. With this idea in mind it was thought advisable to make the wall of the brooder in some degree permeable to air. To meet this requirement the walls and cover of the brooder are made of cloth. Essentially the brooder is a cloth box containing a hovel of the type in which the lamp-fumes are conducted outside of the building by an exhaust pipe.

These brooders are built permanently into the houses which they occupy. Two brooders are placed in each corner of the house, one in each corner of the building. In this way one end wall and the back wall of the building form two sides of each brooder. The remaining side and cover are made of cloth tacked on light wooden frames. The floor of the brooder stands ten inches above the floor of the house. From the front of the brooder a sloping walk extends down to the house floor, reaching in width clear across the whole front of the brooder. The cloth front and side of the brooder are not permanently fixed in position but are removable panels, which are held together and to the framework by hooks and eyes. The cover is hinged in the middle in such a way that it can be either half opened or entirely opened and folded back out of the way. In consequence of this arrangement it is possible to regulate with great nicety the amount of air which shall be admitted to the brooder.

EUROPEAN WAR SHATTERS KING COTTON'S THRONE

FLEECY STAPLE MUST PAY RANSOM INTO THE COFFERS OF WAR.

Nation Rings With Cries of Stricken Industry.

By Peter Radford

Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

King Cotton has suffered more from the European war than any other agricultural product on the American continent. The shells of the belligerents have burst over his throne, frightening his subjects and shattering his markets, and panic-stricken, the nation cries out "God save the king!"

People from every walk of life have contributed their mite toward rescue work. Society has danced before the king; millions have decreed that the family wardrobe shall contain only cotton goods; the press has pleaded with the public to "buy a bale"; bankers have been formulating holding plans; congress and legislative bodies have deliberated over relief measures; statesmen and writers have grown eloquent expounding the inalienable rights of "His Majesty" and presenting schemes for preserving the financial integrity of the stricken staple, but the sword of Europe has proved mightier than the pen of America in fixing value upon this product of the sunny south. Prices have been bayoneted, values riddled and markets decimated by the battling hosts of the eastern hemisphere until the American farmer has suffered a war loss of $400,000,000, and a bale of cotton brave enough to enter a European port must pay a ransom of half its value or go to prison until the war is over.

Hope of the Future Lies in Co-operation.

The farmers' Union, through the columns of the press, wants to thank the American people for the friendship, sympathy and assistance given the cotton farmers in the hour of distress and to direct attention to co-operative methods necessary to permanently assist the marketing of all farm products.

The present emergency presents as grave a situation as ever confronted the American farmer and from the viewpoint of the producer, would seem to justify extraordinary relief measures, even to the point of bending the constitution and straining business rules in order to lift a portion of the burden off the backs of the farmer, or to direct attention to co-operative methods necessary to permanently assist the marketing of all farm products.

All calamities teach us lessons and the present crisis serves to illuminate the frailties of our marketing methods and the weakness of our credit system, and out of the financial anguish and travail of the cotton farmer will come a volume of discussion and a mass of suggestions and finally a solution of this, the biggest problem in the economic life of America. If, indeed, we have not already laid the foundation for at least temporary relief.

More Pharaohs Needed in Agriculture. Farm products have no credit and perhaps can never have on a permanent and satisfactory basis unless we build warehouses, cold storage plants, elevators, etc., for without storage and credit facilities, the south is compelled to dump its crop on the market at harvest time. The Farmers' Union in the cotton producing states have for the past ten years persistently advised the children take BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP willingly because it tastes nice. There isn't a better remedy anywhere for children's coughs, hoarseness and bronchitis. It's a good medicine and easy to take. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. ## THE GRANGE

J. W. DARRROW, Chairman, N. Y.
Editor of the New York State Grange
Review

ACTIVE COUNTY GRANGE.

Located on Long Island, New York, and is Doing Things.

The Suffolk county (N. Y.) Pomona grange is an example of a worthy and efficient enterprise. The grange is young in Long Island, but under the progressive direction of its leaders it is setting a pace for granges in other sections. The Suffolk grangers are alive to the farmers' interests and are accomplishing results. The following brief account of a Pomona meeting will show the nature of its general activities:

The committee on county fair reported that they had secured an offer from the fair association of a first prize of $100, a second of $75 and a third of $50 for grange exhibits at the fair in September. They also reported that a movement was on foot to erect a grange building on the fair ground, to be used for grange exhibits and the second floor as an auditorium and grange hall.

Resolutions were offered and enthusiastically adopted recommending that all subordinate granges make the finest exhibits possible and that each grange at least $100 toward the grange building. Some granges reported having already started the building fund. A list of subscribers has been started, each of whom pledges himself to be one of 100 to give $25. It is expected that $25,000 will be raised by the granges and through their influence for a fine building. They want to make the fair prosperous, attractive and clean. They will cut out the vulgar side shows and cut down the horse racing. They mean to demonstrate that the grange stands for the best in agriculture and rural life.

The Pomona bureau of information and markets, co-operating with similar bureaus in all the subordinate granges, is doing great work to bring products and consumers together and afford the farmers a better market. The discussion of this work was interesting and profitable.

EGRA A. TUTTLE,
Master of Pomona.

GRANGE ACTIVITIES.

What Some Organizations of the West Do For Entertainment.

Centerville grange, Illinois, has secured an expert accountant to help the members start an efficient system of keeping farm accounts. He has formulated a system especially adapted to the needs of the farmer, being so simple that in some cases the children in the family do the book work. He visits this grange, looks over the books and advises the members. An orchestra has been organized among the members, also a married ladies' chorus, which are always ready to add something to the program. An attorney recently explained to the grange the new road law. This grange hopes to have an entertainment course next winter in connection with its work.

County Line grange of the same state had an instructive talk by our county farm adviser on how to test and treat the soil for acid conditions of various soils, showing them with litmus paper and testing the effect of lime on those which were acid. The state soil expert was also present and discussed the treatment of the soil and use of fertilizers.

Maple Grove grange had a meeting devoted to developing "community pride." This grange has much musical talent. Following a Mendelssohn program given in April, a Schubert program was given in May. Oak Grove members had a practical talk by a veterinarian, in which various diseases were described by means of charts, and proper care and remedies described.

Another Knox county grange, as a result of its literary contest last spring, added forty-five new members. A dramatic company has been organized, a piano bought and paid for and a movement started to build or remodel its hall.

A Practical Plan. Progress in grange work is indicated in a plan set in motion in one of the New England states whose operation will be watched with much interest and which may possibly lead to an extension of the idea, says the National Grange Monthly. The plan is the formation of an association of past masters of subordinate granges within a given zone, which association shall devote its energies to getting behind every worthy grange undertaking and helping push it through to success. Regular meetings of the association are provided for, specific avenues of work outlined and definite assignments of members made. The project is novel and its possibilities are numberless.

Grange Master For High Office. At the solicitation of Pennsylvania grangers State Master William T. Creasy has become a candidate for lieutenant governor. Mr. Creasy's sixteen years in the legislature taught Pennsylvania farmers the great value of having a staunch representative on the ground when laws are made.

Sick Headache. Sick headache is nearly always caused by disorders of the stomach. Correct them and the periodic attacks of headache will disappear. Mrs. John Bishop, of Roseville, Ohio, writes: "About a year ago I was troubled with indigestion and had sick headache that lasted for two or three days at a time. I doctored and tried a number of remedies, but nothing helped me until during one of those spells a friend advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. This medicine relieved me in a short time." # THE $1,000,000.00 MYSTERY

(By Harold McGrath)

"A paper, my friend, a little secret of paper with invisible writing on it. We promise to give you something in exchange for it."

"What?" asked Jim with as much nonchalance as he could assume.

"Life,"

"Search," said Jim. "You won't object to my smoking?" He began to roll a cigarette while they passed over him. He struck a match; the pleasant aroma of tobacco floated about his head.

"He's got it on him somewhere. I saw him take it. He's got his nerve with him."

The cigarette glowed. Jim smoked hurriedly.

Through every pocket they went. The contents of his wallet lay scattered at his feet; his watch dangled from the chain. The cigarette grew shorter and shorter. Suddenly one of the men stretched out a hand and whisked the cigarette from Jim's lips. He threw it to the floor and stamped out the coal.

"I thought so!" he exclaimed, holding out the scrap of burnt paper towards Braine.

The words "Dear Hargrave" were all that remained of the message. With a snarl of rage Braine whipped out his revolver.

"I will give you one minute to tell me what that paper contained."

"And after that minute is up?"

"A bullet in your stomach."

Quick as a flash Jim's hand shot out, caught the loosely held revolver, gave it a wrench, and brought it down savagely upon Braine's head. Then he reversed it and backed toward the front entrance.

"Au revoir, till we meet again, gentlemen!"

CHAPTER XXI.

A Packet of Papers.

Jim said nothing at first about his adventure to Jones, whom he met half an hour later.

"Was it necessary to keep that invisible letter?" he asked.

"No," said Jones.

"Would it have given our affairs a serious turn if it had fallen into alien hands?"

"Decidedly," answered Jones. "It would mean flight for the Black Hundred or a long time under cover. If our friend Braine learned that Russia was now taking an active interest in the doings of the Black Hundred, and eventually all our work would have to be done over again."

"Ah!"

"You look a bit mused up. Anything happened?" asked the keen-eyed Braine.

"Nothing much. I made a cigarette out of the letter and smoked it."

Jones chuckled. "I see that you have had an adventure of some sort; but it can wait."

"It can."

"Because I want you to pack off to Washington?"

"Washington?"

"Yes, I want you to interview those officials who are most familiar with the extradition laws."

"A new kink?"

"What I wish to learn is this: Can a man, formerly undesirable, take out naturalization papers and hold to the protection of the United States government? That is to say, a poisoner, menaced by Siberia, becomes an American citizen. He is abducted and carried back to Russia. Could he look to this government for protection? That is what I want you to find out."

"That will be easy. When shall I start?"

"As soon as you can pack your grip."

"That's always packed," replied the reporter. "You see, I'm eternally strapped either here and there, at a moment's notice, so I always have an extra grip packed for quick travel."

"The Russian agent wants Braine, Vron, and the contest; and tonight I'm going to try to point them out to him. It would satisfy me more than anything I know to eliminate this precious trio in Russian fashion. It's thorough, and once accomplished, good-day to the Black Hundred in America. The organization in Russia has still some political significance, but on this side of the water it is merely an aggregation of mercenary thugs."

"I'll take the first train out. But you will tell Florence?"

"Surely."

"And take care of your own heels. You were watched at the hotel."

"I know that; but the watcher could learn nothing. Henri Servan is a name I will suggest nothing to the fool who followed me. Besides, we both knew that he was trying to peek through the keyhole. That hotel, you know, still retains the old-fashioned keyholes."

"To keep the maid in good humor, I suppose," laughed Jim. "Well, I must be on my way to make that flyer."

The two shook hands and Jim hurried off. The butler watched him till he disappeared down the subway.

"He's a good lad," he murmured, "and a brave lad; and money is only an incident in human affairs after all. I'll be a good angel and let the two be happy, since they love each other and have proved it in a thousand ways."

Meanwhile the Russian agent settled down before his writing portfolio; and once or twice as he wrote he thought he heard a sound outside the door. No doubt this butler of Hargrave's had been watched and followed. By and by he rose, drew his revolver, and tiptoed to the door obligingly so that the watcher outside might not become aware of his approach. Swiftly he swung back the door and the member of the Black Hundred stumbled into the room. Almost instantly the Russian caught him by the collar and held him up.

"What were you doing outside my door?"

The man did not answer. He was trying to collect his thoughts.

"A spy of some sort, eh?"

"I'm a detective," said the man finally, thinking he saw his way clear.

"And what did you expect to learn by looking through the keyhole of my door?"

Servan laughed. "Show me your badge of authority."

The man fumbled in his upper pocket, hoping against hope that the muzzle of the revolver would wave over him.

"You're an ordinary thief," declared the Russian; "and as such I shall instantly hand you over to the hotel authorities unless you tell me exactly who and what you are."

Who and what you are?

The man remained dumb. He hung between the devil and the deep sea. If he told the truth the organization would soon learn the truth; if he kept still he would be lodged in jail, perhaps indefinitely, for he hadn't a savory police record. Presently his nerve gave way in face of the steady eye and hand, and he confessed the why and wherefore he had sought the keyhole of Servan's room.

"We are after this butler. Wherever he goes we follow."

"Well, you've wasted your time, my man. All I am here for is to take over some property Mr. Hargrave left in France for sale. I know nothing about your private feuds. Now, get out. But keep out of my way. I am not a peaceful man."

The spy tumbled out as he had tumbled in, by an act of gravity; and Servan was alone. He spent two days in comparative idleness. Then things began to wake up.

For a long time the leather box across which was inscribed "Stanley Hargrave" lay in peace undisturbed. A busy spider had woven a trap across the handle, and the spider lock was still badly stained from its immersion in the salt water. At a certain time it was quietly withdrawn from its hiding place. It was stealthily opened. A hand reached in and when it withdrew a packet of papers was also withdrawn. The box was again locked and lowered; and presently the spider returned to find that his cunning trap had been totally destroyed. With the infinite patience of his kind he began the tedious work of another trap. Perhaps this would be more successful than its predecessor.

Later Henri Servan received a telephone call. He was informed that his purpose in America would be realized by his presence at such and such a box that night at the opera. Further information could not be given over the telephone. Servan seemed well satisfied. He dressed carefully that evening, called up the office clerk and inquired if his box tickets for the opera had arrived. He was informed that they had. Instantly the spy, who had dared to linger about the hotel, overhearing this conversation, determined to notify Braine at once. And at the same time, Norton, in disguise, determined not to lose sight of this man whom he had set himself to watch.

The spy left by one entrance and Jim by another. Jim had learned what he desired; that the Russian agent would be followed to the opera and that it was going to be difficult to hand the documents to him. The spy entered a drug store and telephoned. The man came out, the street and entered the nearest saloon. Jim's work was done.

It was Braine's lieutenant, however, who took the news to Braine.

"Good," said Braine.

"He will go to the opera. He will have a box. Doubtless they have arranged to deliver the papers there."

"And the next thing is to get the number of his box." This Braine had no difficulty in doing. "So that's all fixed. He calls himself Servan and registers from Paris. I'll show the fool that he has no moult to deal with this time."

"And what are these documents?" asked Olga.

"That's what we are so anxious to find out. Some papers are going to be exchanged between this Russian spy and Jones or his agents. That these papers concern us vitally I am certain. That is why I'm going to get them if it takes me to be a murder at the opera tonight. Norton has been to Washington. He was seen coming out of the Russian embassy, from the secretaries of state and war and a dozen other offices. I've got to find out just what all this means."

"It means that the time has come for us to fly," said Olga. "We have failed. I have warned you. We have still plenty of money left. It is time we folded our tents and stole away quietly. I tell you I feel in my bones that there is a pit before us somewhere; and if you force issues we shall all fall into it."

"The white feather, my dear?"

"There is altogether some difference between the white feather and common-sense caution."

"I shall never give up. You are free to pack up and go if you wish. As for me, I'm going to fight this out to the bitter end."

"And take my word for it, the end will be bitter."

"Well?"

"Oh, I shall stay. You know that my future is bound up in yours. In the old days my advice generally appealed to you as sound; and when you followed it you were successful. From the first I advised you not to pursue Hargrave. See what has happened!"

"Enough of this chatter. I've got to do some time; it will be with my face toward this man I hate with all my soul. You trust to me; I'll pull out of this all right. You just fix yourself up stunnily for the opera tonight and leave the rest to me."

Olga shrugged. She was something of a fatalist. This man of hers had suddenly gone mad; and one did not reason with mad people.

"What shall I wear?" she asked calmly.

"Emeralds; they're your good luck stones. You will go to the box before I do. I've got to spend some time at the club to be sure that this Servan is really alive. And it is quite possible that he may be dead. Jones will come later. As for me, I shall immediately hand you over to the hotel authorities unless you tell me exactly who and what you are."

"And what are these documents?" asked Olga.

"That's what we are so anxious to find out. Some papers are going to be exchanged between this Russian spy and Jones or his agents. That these papers concern us vitally I am certain. That is why I'm going to get them if it takes me to be a murder at the opera tonight. Norton has been to Washington. He was seen coming out of the Russian embassy, from the secretaries of state and war and a dozen other offices. I've got to find out just what all this means."

"It means that the time has come for us to fly," said Olga. "We have failed. I have warned you. We have still plenty of money left. It is time we folded our tents and stole away quietly. I tell you I feel in my bones that there is a pit before us somewhere; and if you force issues we shall all fall into it."

"The white feather, my dear?"

"There is altogether some difference between the white feather and common-sense caution."

"I shall never give up. You are free to pack up and go if you wish. As for me, I'm going to fight this out to the bitter end."

"And take my word for it, the end will be bitter."

"Well?"

"Oh, I shall stay. You know that my future is bound up in yours. In the old days my advice generally appealed to you as sound; and when you followed it you were successful. From the first I advised you not to pursue Hargrave. See what has happened!"

"Enough of this chatter. I've got to do some time; it will be with my face toward this man I hate with all my soul. You trust to me; I'll pull out of this all right. You just fix yourself up stunnily for the opera tonight and leave the rest to me."

Olga shrugged. She was something of a fatalist. This man of hers had suddenly gone mad; and one did not reason with mad people.

"What shall I wear?" she asked calmly.

"Emeralds; they're your good luck stones. You will go to the box before I do. I've got to spend some time at the club to be sure that this Servan is really alive. And it is quite possible that he may be dead. Jones will come later. As for me, I shall immediately hand you over to the hotel authorities unless you tell me exactly who and what you are."

HENRY BOSWORTH IN RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP IN OLD KENTUCKY

State Auditor Who Has Helped to Bring About Fairer Valuation of Franchises of Big Corporations Is a Candidate For Democratic Nomination.

RUNNING ON RECORD AS PUBLIC SERVANT

Full Day's Work For Full Day's Pay and a Square Deal in Taxation For Rich and Poor Alike in His Platform.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:

After due reflection I have fully decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of this great state. I do this with a full sense of the high responsibility incurred, if nominated, and the obligations that will rest upon me if elected.

I have been a Democrat all my life and have never voted against a party nominee. My father before me was a Democrat, and I am proud to say that I have five brothers of the same faith, all of whom have been equally loyal with myself to the Democratic faith, and I now ask that the people of this great commonwealth shall

"We are near the end," whispered Florence.

"Very near the end."

"And I shall see my father?"

Jones bent his head. "If we succeed."

"There is danger?" thinking of her lover.

"There is always danger when I leave this house. So be good," the butler added with a smile.

"And Jim?"

"He has proved that he can take care of himself."

"Tell him to be very careful."

"I'll do so, but it will not be necessary; and with this Jones set forth upon what he considered the culminating adventure.

The usual brilliant crowd began to pour into the opera. Braine took his stand by the entrance. He waited a long time, but his patience was rewarded. A limousine drove up and out of the door came his man, who looked about with casual interest. He dismissed the limousine, which wheeled slowly around the corner where it could be conveniently parked.

Then Servan entered the opera. Braine hurried around to the limousine. The lights, save those demanded by traffic regulations, were out. The chauffeur was huddled in his seat.

"My man," said Braine, "would you like to make some money?"

"How much?" listlessly. The voice was muffled.

"Twenty."

"Good night, sir."

"Fifty."

"Good night and good morning!"

"A hundred?"

"Now you've got me interested. What kind of a joy ride do you want?"

"No joy ride. Listen."

Briefly the conspirator outlined his needs, and finally the chauffeur nodded. Five twenties were pressed into his hand and he curled up in his seat again.

Servan entered his box. In the box next to his sat a handsomely groomed young woman. He threw her an idle glance, which was repaid in kind. Later, Braine came in and sat down beside Olga.

"Evening looks like plain sailing," he whispered.

Olga shrugged slightly.

During the intermission between the first and second acts, Servan took the rear chair of his box, near the curtains. Braine, watching with the eyes of a lynx, suddenly observed a man, who came out, he stroiled up the street and entered the nearest saloon. Jim's work was done.

It was Braine's lieutenant, however, who took the news to Braine.

"Good," said Braine.

"He will go to the opera. He will have a box. Doubtless they have arranged to deliver the papers there."

"And the next thing is to get the number of his box." This Braine had no difficulty in doing. "So that's all fixed. He calls himself Servan and registers from Paris. I'll show the fool that he has no moult to deal with this time."

"And what are these documents?" asked Olga.
